DEMANDS $25,000

Fred Pargellis Sues for Damages.

Claims Negligence and Carelessness on Part of Elevator Company.

Fred Pargellis formerly of Middleton township, who was foreman of the Union Elevator of East Toledo, and one of the victims of the recent fire there, who barely escaped with his life, and who has suffered untold agony from the injuries received, has commenced proceedings against the owners of the elevator for $25,000 damages.

Pargellis, says the Sentinel, makes the Union Railroad Elevator and Transportation company defendants.
He does not refer to Paddock, Hodge & Co. at all. He sets forth that he was in the employ of the elevator company, which owned and operated the property as foreman.

Pargellis then states that dust had accumulated throughout the building, and that the defendant company had negligently and carelessly failed to provide apparatus for sprinkling, blowing or carrying away the accumulated dust, which was necessary for the safety of the workmen.

He further asserts that the machinery, engines and boilers in the elevator were unsafe, defective and insecure, and that the engines, boilers and connecting machinery was old and worn out, and that the pumps, cylinders and dome on the boiler were filled with an accumulated dust and cinders. He says that the machinery, journals and boxes locked oil cups and bearings, causing them to become dangerously hot. He avers that the boiler foamed and was dangerous.

Sewing Machines.
What is the use of buying a cheaply constructed machine when you can buy the Domestic or White at the same price? 22 WM. SCHLECHT.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Perrysburg May Possibly Have Electricity

A Long Delayed Improvement That May Be Provided Soon.

The meeting of the council held on Thursday night by call of the Mayor was one of much importance to our village.

All the members of the Council and the Clerk were present. Absent, the Mayor.

Mr. Hanson was called to preside as President pro tem.

The president stated that the meeting was called for the purpose of receiving bids for furnishing electric lights for the village.

Fred Mauer, an expert electrician, who has an electric light plant in another village in the State, presented his bid through his representative, C.
M. Hamilton.

Wm. Witzler of Perrysburg through his representative, Fred B. Perkins, also presented a bid.

Each bid was accompanied by a certified check for $200 as a guarantee that the bidders were ready to enter into a contract with the village in case the Council was ready to make such contract.

The bids were opened and read, together with the specifications under which the bidders were willing to contract.

Previous to the meeting of the Council, a special committee had been authorized to confer with bidders and arrange specifications agreeable to both Council and bidders. Upon reading the specifications some slight changes had been made to which Council took exception, and a discussion was opened. The bidders plainly stated that they had made their specifications exactly alike in order that there might be no differences to adjust and because they could not comply with the specifications as first suggested by Council.

The bid of Mr. Mauer agreed to furnish 28 arc lights of 2000 candle power on moonlight schedule, and dark nights, Council to be judge of what are dark nights, until 1 a. m. at a rate of $65 per light, and incandescents at a rate of 12 cents per thousand watts, metre measure.

Mr. Witzler's bid was the same with the addition of all night lights at $85 per light.

Mr. Degner, said he had not been present when the specifications had been under discussion and desired an adjournment in order that he might have an opportunity to familiarize himself with their provisions before casting his vote.

Messrs. Hoffmann and Klingler also thought further time necessary.

Mr. Klingler then suggested that the change in specifications be compared with Council's copy of same to which the bidders readily assented.

Mr. Schlecht thought it advisable to accept one of the bids, but the desire for further time to examine the specifications prevailed, and a motion to adjourn to Saturday night was carried.

CAMP YOUNG.

AUGUSTA, GA., Nov. 20, 1898.

ED. JOURNAL.—After a 30 days turlough, I am once more with the Tenth regiment in their new location in Georgia. I left Columbus on the 16th and came south by the way of Cincinnati and Chickamauga, arriving at Atlanta at noon the following day. A stop of three hours was necessitated here which time I utilized to a good advantage, visiting the many points of great interest in this historic Southern city. At 3 p. m. I continued my journey, arriving at Augusta at 10 o'clock that night.

Any one who thinks the southerners are not a progressive and enterprising class of people will have reasons to change their opinions after viewing this truly beautiful little city. The streets are clean and well kept, paved to the width of 40 feet with fire-brick and on either side an asphalt path for light rigs and bicycles. The buildings compare very favorably with those of northern cities, and the general appearance of things shows more thriftiness than the people of the south are credited with.

Our city of tents, Camp Young, is located four miles east of Augusta, and communication with that place is excellent as a street car line runs within a mile of camp, and at present there is a movement on foot to extend the line into camp.

The change in climate between this place and Camp Meade is quite noticeable as the boys can be seen sauntering about camp without a coat on and lounging in the shade of the wide-spreading magnolia trees, while in the north they were searching for extra overcoats and running up and down the camp streets to keep from freezing to death. The nights here, however, are cool and a heavy blanket is a very necessary adjunct to insure a comfortable night's repose.

On Thanksgiving a celebration will be held in camp on which occasion our near relative, Uncle Sam, will give us a dinner such as we have not seen since we have been in his service. The six western troops of cavalry that are camped here will give a wild west show that will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by those who will have an opportunity to see it.

The site of Camp Young was all shrubbery and underbrush when the soldiers arrived here, but by hard and persistent work and good management we pride ourselves on having as neat and commodious camp as a soldier ever lived in.

Not much can be said in favor of the fertility of the soil in this section. It is generally white sand and all that can be successfully raised is cane, cotton, sweet potatoes, disturbance and umbrellas. Some fields of corn are planted but invariably on low, marshy ground, in order that the grain may have the necessary moisture.

It rained here nearly all last week and after the sun had shone for two hours the ground was as dry as though it had not seen water for months.

The Perrysburg boys are enjoying best of health and are much pleased with this camp.

There are 10,000 soldiers in camp here and it is expected that they will be on duty across the water, in Cuba, before the beginning of the new year. It is reported that we will leave for that island between the 1st and 15th of December.

Our tents are arranged somewhat different than heretofore. Three of them as put together and there are two floors, one in the front and one in the rear. In the center the guns, knapsacks, blankets, etc., are stored and fill the room snugly. There are eight men in each tent. Each regiment is provided with a band, which furnishes plenty of cheerful music to drive away dull care.

The colored folks are reaping quite a harvest selling fruits, pies, etc., to the boys, and they don't forget to put the tariff on in good shape.

The latest acquisition to the camp is a mascot in the person of a little eleven years old "coon," who answers to the name of Rastus.

We are now under General Young's command, as the first division of the second army corps, company H, was transferred from the second battalion to the first. Our place has been filled by company L of Zanesville.

The first meal of fresh pork was enjoyed recently by company H, when some of the boys found a fine young porker roaming in the woods. They executed him with great ceremony, brought him in and enjoyed the feast, but it would have been cheaper to have imported one from England, pay tax, duty, tariff and everything else on him, as the owner presented a claim for his hog and the amount will be deducted from our monthly allowance on pay day. It must be an expensive breed of hogs they raise in the south judging from the exorbitant price this farmer asked for this one.

WM. P. SCOTT,
Company H, Tenth Regt.

TOLEDO'S ART LOAN

Should be Seen by Every Visitor to the City.

The JOURNAL had the pleasure of visiting the Toledo Art Loan last Saturday, and in company with the Weston Herald Saxby, was shown through the galleries, and listened to Robinson Locke, the chief promoter of the enterprise, give a very interesting description of the many valuable works of art that are to be seen in the exhibition.
Toledo can feel justly proud of her art loan, and the projectors of the scheme have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the great success they have achieved with this, the first art loan ever known to Toledo. The main gallery contains nearly 300 beautiful paintings many of which are valued from $5,000 to $20,000. The Spitzer collection alone has over 50 gems of art while other individual collections, together with etchings and engravings make a total of about 700 pictures.
Added to this is the department of Japanese curios which in itself is worthy a day's time for examination and study, also the antique, and other departments devoted to statuary, pottery, cut glass, bric-a-brac, etc. The people who visit the art loan go away delighted and the audiences are increasing daily. Teachers and pupils of public schools in various localities are making up parties for the purpose and the managers of the Loan make special efforts to entertain them. The price of admission is 25 cents and the funds are directed to the maintenance of the newsboys and bootblacks home.

HELD THE HILLS AT SANTIAGO.

Hip, hurrah! and Vive la American volunteers!
Who won their way and won the day as well as joyous cheers; They crossed the main to war with Spain among the Cuban palms, They cheerfully endured the hills of tropic rains and calms;
But few were in the fighting lines, yet ready to go in At swift command—stout heart, stout hand —prepared to work or win; At duty's call to fight or fall 'mid battle's furious din
Heroes held the hills at Santiago.

The farmer boys and village lads, who never had fought before, With city youths sprang to the front as did their sires of yore, In camp or field they would not yield to scanty fare or toil, But forward looked to battles booked for them on Spanish soil; And marching straight to meet their fate, though red with battle-scars, They challenged all that might befall on bloody fields of Mars; Thus bearing high toward the sky our bannered stripes and stars Heroes held the hills at Santiago.

They bore with patient fortitude the fever dews and damps;
They toiled with grim persistence in the trenches and the camps; They held their lines, though through them stalked the specters of disease; They drank the cups of misery and drained them to the lees; They heard the hissing Mausers seek for targets in their ranks, They saw fierce Spanish shells seek prey in center and on flanks, Held grimly on until the Don gave up, therefore give thanks,
Heroes held the hills at Santiago.

Hip, hurrah! and Vive la American soldier sons Who won the day and won their way to fame with grit and gun!
We twine for them the laurel wreaths, wave o'er them royal palms, And sing until the welkins ring our glad triumphal psalms;
With every order well obeyed, despising coward fears,
Their fame is sure and shall endure through endless future years; Let glory's halo 'round the dead make prisms of our tears;
Heroes held the hills at Santiago.
I. EDGAR JONES.

A DREAMING MATCH.

In Which the Superior Shrewdness of the Paleface Over the Redskin is Shown.

Among the famous Indian traders of the past was George Galphin, whose trading station at Silver Bluff, S. C., was frequented by Indians from far and near. In "Bench and Bar of South Carolina" a characteristic anecdote is related of Mr. Galphin and an Indian chief.

Chief Mogoloch, from beyond the Savannah river, spent the night at Mr.
Galphin's. In the morning the Indian said: "Me dream last night."

"Ah!" said Galphin, "what did my red brother dream?"

"Me dream you give me fine big rifle"

—in Galphin's possession at the time.
The trader instantly passed the rifle to the chief, saying: "If you dreamed it, you must have it."

Next morning Galphin said to the chief: "I dreamed last night."

"What did you dream?" asked Mogo-loch.

"I dreamed you gave me the Chickasaw station"—which the chief was then riding.

"If you dream um you must have um," said the chief, and the horse was straightway transferred to the trader.

The next morning the Indian remarked: "I dream last night."

"What did my red brother dream?" was the inquiry.

"I dream," answered Mogoloch, "you gave me red coat you wear, and much calico."

"If you dreamed it you must have it," said Galphin, and the Indian received the red coat and calico.

Next morning it was Galphin's turn.
He said to the chief: "I dreamed last night."

"What you dream?" was Mogoloch's inquiry.

"I dreamed," replied Galphin, "you gave me ten miles of land around the Ogeechee old town."

"Wugh!" said the Indian: "If you dream you must have um, but I dream with you no more."—Youth's Compan-
